Bharat Bandh

No response in city

Farmer associations and CPI(M) stage protests

Mysuru, Mar.26 (MTY&DM)- The Bharat Bandh called by farmer associations, led by Samyukt Kisan Morcha and a host of Trade Unions in protest against the three Agri-laws, new Labour codes and rising prices of fuel and other essential commodities, did not evoke any response in the city as normal activities were not affected today.

The farmer associations which have been protesting against farm laws at the borders of National Capital since Nov.26, 2020, had called for a nationwide bandh today, marking the completion of four months of non-stop agitation.

All educational Institutions, Banks, Government and other public offices, commercial establishments, markets, Petrol Bunks, Theatres, Malls etc., functioned as usual in city. Transport services remained normal with KSRTC and Railways operating in full scale. Other means of public transport such as autos, maxicabs, taxis too plied as usual.

However, several protests and demonstrations marked the bandh in city. Farmers led by Karnataka Sugarcane Growers Association President Kurubur Shanthakumar held a mock funeral of the farm laws. The protestors, taking off their shirts, marched in a 'funeral procession' from Kuvempu Park near Gun House Circle to Pathashala Circle, before returning to the starting point.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Too many desi uncles waste too much of their precious time lecturing youth on what is Western culture and what is Indian culture and exactly what proportions of these two are healthy for consumption. Culture always evolves and is never static — and the global communications revolution is far-reaching. One entertains doubts whether the preaching falls on receptive ears even within the confines of the speakers' own households.

Now it is Uttarakhand CM Tirath Singh Rawat who indulged himself on the occasion of a workshop on substance abuse, by waxing eloquent about his sensibilities being abused by girls wearing tattered jeans, boys wearing the same, knees showing, not covering their bodies properly, running after English education, women talking about all the things they want to do in life when the most important thing is to look after their family and kids. It takes some pretzeling to follow the connections, but they boil down to an alleged scissoring of sanskars. Lot of young folk have spoken up against the farce of reducing their sanskars to some denimy threads, or lack thereof. The lady in the ripped jeans who drove the CM to such despair has crafted her own equation with work and family, and this freedom is every Indian woman's birthright. Surely this is a most important sanskar of modern India. Youth are navigating hybridities with confidence and excitement. They won't be caged by stereotypes. — In The Times of India

Couple buy home, ex- owner refuses to leave

Riverside: A California couple, who bought their dream home, ended up in a real-life nightmare after the old owner refused to vacate and is still living there over a year since the transaction.

On Jan. 31, 2020, Tracie and Myles Albert put down money on a beautiful four-bedroom home in Riverside, California, but over a year since, they are still unable to move in, because the former owner refuses to leave. The man collected the asking price of 5,60,000 dollars, but after the contract was signed, he refused to hand over the keys and move out. Although the Alberts have tried appealing to the authorities, a California moratorium prevents evictions during the Covid-19 epidemic, so there's nothing anyone can do.

To make matters worse, because he no longer owns the property, the former owner has lost all interest in maintain the property, but he won't allow the new owners to do it either. Tracie Alberts said she tried to water lawn to keep it from dying, but the former owner wouldn't let her.

Artist uses her face as canvas for artworks

Oslo: Makeup artist Sarina Nexie has made a name for herself for using her face as a canvas for some incredibly detailed artworks.

The Norwegian artist says that she had always love drawing and only practiced it on paper. In 2018 summer she decided to take her makeup skills by implementing drawings and that quickly evolved into a whole new style of makeup.

"What I love about using my face as a canvas is that I can do whatever I want and I can just wash it off at the end of the day. Also, there are no limits – the only limits are those which I set for myself," Sarina Nexie said.

Second wave of COVID-19

We need to be careful more than ever

Sir,

Health Minister Dr. K. Sudhakar made it official that the second wave of COVID-19 has already started and we need to be careful more than ever. The cases are increasing everyday and the citizens need to be worried, which they are clearly not.

No colleges and educational institutions are strictly following the SOPs and thermal scanning and wearing face masks has become a thing of the past in some public places of Mysuru city.

Citizens should take every precaution possible and they must get tested by their own will if they have any of the COVID-19 symptoms, so that they will know the cause for their illness and get treated accordingly.

There is still the social stigma surrounding COVID-19 testing and people should remember that getting tested does not mean that they have COVID-19. The citizens should remember that "Prevention is better than cure" and try to normalise things such as wearing masks and sanitisation so that we could prevent further spread of the pandemic.

Free Kidney Health Screening Camp at Sigma Hospital

Mysuru, Mar. 26- Sigma Hospital, Thonachikoppal Road, Saraswathipuram, Mysuru, is conducting a free kidney health screening camp at the hospital premises this Sunday (Mar.28) from 9 am to 1 pm.

Kidney diseases are on the rise and already up to 10 percent of the world population and around estimated 6+0 percent of population in Karnataka is affected with chronic kidney disease. This is due to increasing prevalence of conditions like diabetes and hypertension, along with altered food habits and unsupervised over the counter medications. Unlike other diseases, signs of kidney problems are subtle and in early stages may only be detected by blood, urine tests and scans.

For people with kidney disease, taking medications on time, avoiding pain killers, strict control of blood sugars and blood pressure, right diet and timely consultations are key to retard progression to kidney failure.

For those patients who have landed up in kidney failure, leading a normal life is now possible with options like haemodialysis, peritoneal dialysis and transplant (best possible treatment).

Transplant with a living related donor has a success rate of around 95 percent. Although less but increasing awareness and numbers of cadaver transplants have helped people unable to get matching kidneys. Due to advancement in these facilities, complications are less and good quality of life is now possible. Thus World Kidney Day-2021 theme is 'Living well with kidney disease.' Dr. K.M. Madappa is the Urologist & Transplant Surgeon at Sigma while Dr. Aniketh Prabhakar is the Nephrologist. For details contact Ph: 0821-4266661 / Mob: 91080-28661.

Awards conferred on two women writers

Mysuru, Mar. 26 (DM)- Suttur Mutt Seer Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Swamiji said that women engaged in literature should be given more encouragement.

He was speaking after conferring 'Padma Bhushan Dr. B. Sarojadevi Literary Endowment Award' on senior writer Vasumathi Udupa and 'T. Girija Literary Award' on author H.S. Sujatha at a programme organised by Mysuru district unit of Kannada Sahitya Parishat at Sahitya Bhavan in Vijayanagar 1st Stage here on Wednesday.

Pointing out that many women have succeeded in literature despite all odds, the Swamiji said that women writers can achieve much more if their works are analysed factually and encouraged.

Noting that both have been engaged in writing for years, he said that they are honoured for their contributions to the literary field, despite their limitations.

Observing that the media should recognise and honour such women writers who are shy of publicity, he opined that the Sahitya Parishat should come forward for recognising the talent of women writers.

Writer Vasumathi Udupa, who spoke after receiving the award, said that she made her debut in the literary world by writing poems. Later she developed an interest in writing stories, when she realised that prose is a better medium for expressing the inner self and mind, she said.

Pointing out that her first story was published in a Kannada weekly when she was just 19 years, Vasumathi Udupa said that later on, all articles of her were published in newspapers.

Veteran writer Sujatha said that she has written in about 12 forms of literature and the readers must get a clear understanding of her works after going through them thoroughly.

Asserting that she developed more interest in literature by relentless reading, she regretted that Sanskrit literature is on the brink of extinction.

Kannada Sahitya Parishat President Dr. Manu Baligar said that Vasumathi Udupa and H.S. Sujatha have been selected for the two awards in recognition of their contributions to the literary field.

Pointing out that it is perhaps for the first time that there is no objection to the selection of the awardees, he said that the two women writers are a great inspiration to the younger generation of writers.

District Kannada Sahitya Parishat President Dr. Y.D. Rajanna, Hon. Secretary K. Rajkumar, Rajashekar Kadamba, K.S. Shivaramu, Mugur Nanjundaswamy and others were present during the programme.

Two arrested while attempting to sell tiger claws, canines

18 claws, two canines recovered

Mysuru, Mar. 26 (MTY&KS)- In separate cases, the Mysuru Forest Mobile Squad personnel have arrested two persons who were trying to sell tiger claws and canines and have recovered 18 claws and two canines besides seizing a two-wheeler.

In the first case, the Forest personnel, acting on a tip off, raided the spot near Hunsur, where one of the accused was trying to sell the claws and canines and arrested him besides recovering nine claws and two canines from him. The Forest staff also seized a two-wheeler used for transporting the claws and canines from him.

The accused has been identified as Shankara of K.R. Pet taluk. During interrogation, the accused is said to have revealed the name of the person, who had given him the claws and canines and also gave the officials the address of the person. But when the Forest officials went to the given address, no such person was found there.

In the second case, the Forest staff have arrested Ganesha, a tribal from Shettihalli Tribal Rehabilitation Centre at Hunsur, who was trying to sell tiger claws and recovered nine claws from him.

During enquiry, Ganesha is said to have told the Forest staff that a person from Kodagu had given the claws to him. Here too, the accused had revealed the name of the person from Kodagu, but when the Forest staff visited the given address, they came to know that the person they had come in search of had died a few years ago.

Forest officials, who have turned down cases of poaching in both cases said that the claws and canines looked very old and added that they are investigating further. RFO Vivek, DRFOs Lakshmeesh, Nagaraj, Pramod, Sundar, Vinod, Sneha and Meghana, Forest Gaurds Channabasappa, Virupaksha, Sharanappa, Govinda, Kotresh and Ravikumar, drivers Madhu and Puttaswamy, took part in the nabbing and recovery operation.

Exclusive Leopard Safari at Bannerghatta Biological Park

Mysuru, Mar. 26 (BCT)- The long-pending proposal for a Leopard Safari at Bannerghatta Biological Park (BBP) near Bengaluru has now been revived by Zoo Authority of Karnataka (ZAK) Chairman L.R. Mahadevaswamy.

Visiting the BBP on Wednesday, Mahadevaswamy said that the BBP already has Lion and Tiger Safaris and a Leopard Safari would be an added attraction. Years back the proposal of Leopard Safari was floated and as per the plan, four separate premises will be constructed for the safari and each premise will have six cages.

Years ago, the BBP had submitted a proposal to Central Zoo Authority of India and ZAK as the Zoo Authority was planning to implement this project in Sri Chamarajendra Zoological Gardens in Mysuru. But as the authorities of Mysuru had refused to accept captivated leopards, the approval was granted for the BBP.

Now the project is likely to see the light of the day and Mahadevaswamy said that a 3.5-acre land inside the BBP has been reserved for Leopard Safari.

Eight leopards that are housed in BBP will be on display. "New attractions like chimpanzees and Himalayan bears would be added to the BBP and plans are afoot to construct houses for Mahouts and Kavadis and also a hi-tech hospital," the ZAK Chairman said.

The main intention of the Leopard Safari is to create awareness among the public about leopards that are shy animals. On an average, around 50- 60 leopards are killed in Karnataka every year due to man-animal conflict. The big cats stray into villages in search of food due to shrinking forest cover.

So naturally, people tend to injure or kill them without understanding its implications on nature. Keeping this in mind, the leopard safari is being planned at BBP.

The curious case of missing gold casket

- Missing Karadige of Male Mahadeshwara Temple found in garbage dump
- Questions arise as Police complaint filed after 5 days; devotees express concern

Chamarajanagar, Mar. 26 (SS&BCT)- A golden casket (Karadige in Kannada that means a box-like ornament in which a Shiva Linga is placed) belonging to Male Mahadeshwara Temple atop Male Mahadeshwara Hills in Hanur taluk of Chamarajanagar district which had gone missing on Mar. 18 has been found. The missing of Karadige had caused widespread concern among devotees regarding the safety of the Temple's precious assets.

The Karadige was found yesterday by a civic worker Sunil in a garbage dump right in front of the Temple's Rajagopura. The ornament was adorned to the Utsava Murthy of Sri Parvathi Ammanavaru and it was found by Sunil, an outsourced civic worker who alerted the Temple authorities at about 3.30 pm. Sunil had found the Karadige when he was loading garbage onto a vehicle.

Immediately after the discovery, Jaya Vibhavaswamy, the Executive Officer of Male Mahadeshwara Temple Development Authority, Deputy Secretary Basavaraju rushed near the garbage dump along with Male Mahadeshwara Police Inspector G.N. Ramesh and recovered the precious item. The ornament is at present in the possession of the Police and would be handed over to the Temple authorities after completing certain formalities.

Missing after procession

The Karadige carries 32 gram gold and usually adorned the Utsava Murthy of the Goddess Parvathi along with the presiding deity Mahadeshwara during the annual festival and other important festivals. The Karadige was found missing after the idol was taken in a procession out of the Temple on Mar. 18. It came to light after the ornaments were accounted for after the procession.

Shocked by this development, priests and Temple authorities frantically searched for it in vain. Later a Police complaint was lodged. Upset by the missing of the Karadige, devotees had cast aspersions on the Temple management and questioned the integrity of the people who manage the day-to-day affairs of the Temple.

As per tradition, priests among members of Bedagampana community take turns to perform pujas to the presiding deity and Sri Parvathi Ammanavaru and each month, a different team takes over the puja rituals. At the end of each month, the Bedagampana team hands over the ornaments, puja materials and other valuables to the next team after every item is audited.

Police complaint filed after 5 days

At present, the ornaments and other items were in the custody of K.V. Madesh and Kirubamaada Thammadi group. After the Karadige went missing, the Temple Authority served a show-cause notice to three priests as they had signed a document and had taken custody of the ornament. However, the devotees questioned the move of the Temple management of lodging the Police complaint on Mar. 23, five days after the Karadige was found missing.

Devotees and a section of priests have alleged that the Karadige was intentionally stolen to bring a bad name to the team of priests who are carrying out ritual at present. Embarrassed by the ornament missing, the Temple management had even decided to get a new Karadige made to replace the missing one, said sources. Even the team of priests in question had agreed to pay from their pockets and get a new Karadige made with the permission of the Temple management.

Interestingly, the Karadige was found hours after the news appeared in media and this has given rise to suspicion about the person behind the missing incident. Devotees alleged that the ornament was stolen by someone and the fear of Police made that person throw the Karadige into a garbage dump.

However, Jaya Vibhavaswamy told reporters that the Police would investigate the missing ornament and more details would emerge after the probe.

The victim has been identified as K. Sudhakar, an estate supervisor at Bajegolli Kamadhenu Estate in Pollibetta. T.H. Mohammad of Badaga Banangala village has sustained injuries.

The customary rituals took place in the traditional manner between 6 am and 7 am in the auspicious Meena Lagna under the guidance of Temple Chief Priest Nagaraj Dikshith.

With the district administration scaling down the fest in view of COVID-19 pandemic, the Gouthama Rathotsava (90 ft. tall big chariot) did not take place. However, five other Rathas (Chariots) dedicated to deities — Srikanteshwara, Ganapathi, Parvati Devi, Subramanya and Chandikeshwara — were taken out in a procession on the Ratha Beedi of the town.

As the five specially decorated chariots rolled out from the temple, the devotees chanted prayers hailing the deities. After passing through the Car Streets covering a total distance of 1km, the chariots returned to the starting point at about 8 am.

MINOR GLITCH

However, the Rathotsava witnessed a minor glitch as a portion of the front right wheel of the chariot carrying the deity (Parvati Devi) was damaged, after travelling some distance, causing concern among the devotees. But the temple authorities wasted no time and replaced the broken down chariot with another one, following which the procession went on smoothly.

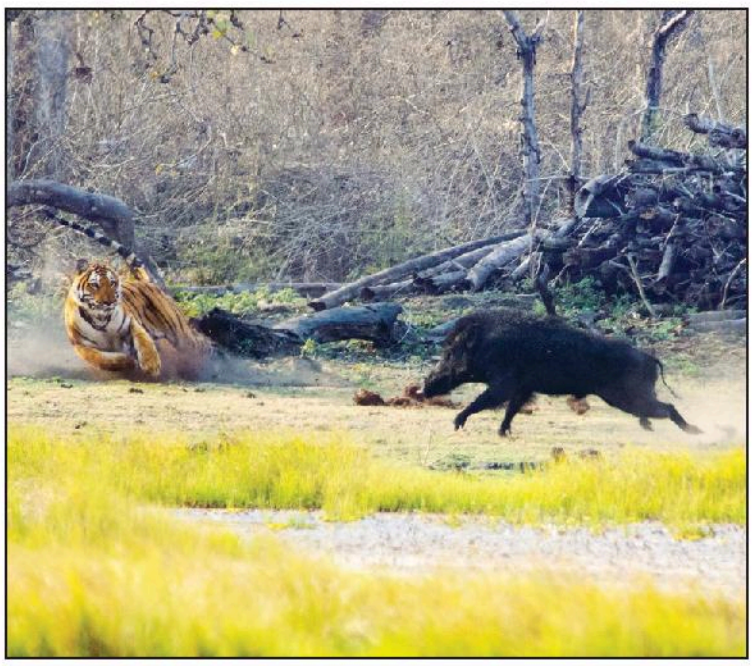
It is important to note here that all the five chariots were certified fully fit by Engineers and technicians for taking part in today's all important Dodda Rathotsava. The devotees were seen cursing the authorities for their negligent attitude in certifying the chariots.

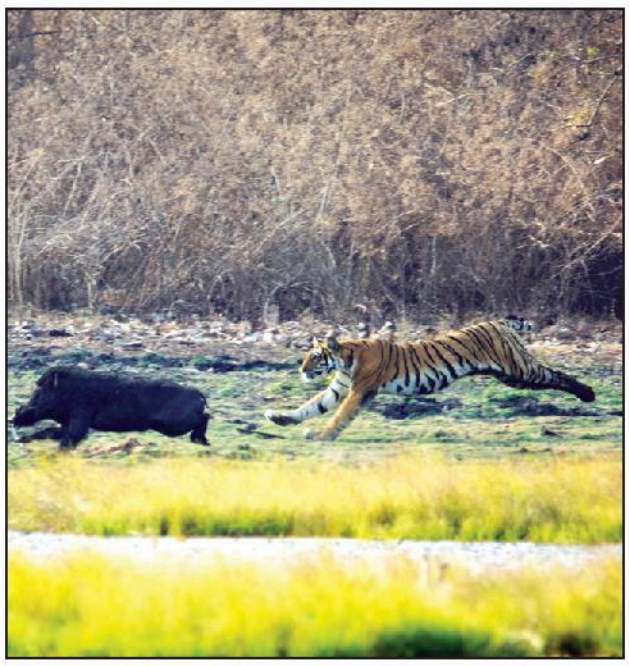
Last year, the Jathra was cancelled due to COVID-19 pandemic, while this year, it was scaled down.

NO ENTRY FOR OUTSIDERS

Police had set up check-points on all roads leading to the temple last evening itself to prevent entry of outsiders.

Assistant Commissioner Venkataraju, Tahsildar Mohana Kumari, Temple Executive Officer Ravindra, Nanjangud CMC Commissioner Karibasavaiah, DySP Govindaraju, CPI Lakshmikanth Talwar and other officials were present.





Lucky ESCAPE...

A wild boar escaped from being caught and devoured by a tigress at Kabini Forest on March 23 evening. Software Engineer R. Rakshit Kumar, a resident of Metagalli in city, who had been to the forest, was lucky to encounter the hunt and click the same on his camera. The tigress, which countered the boar from the front initially could not catch it as the boar dodged the attempt. Later, the tigress chased the wild boar in full speed for a distance but was unable to hunt it down as the boar made a lucky escape into the bushes.

Mechanic Khaleel's way of Aatmanirbhar Bharat

German car's switch unit runs with mixer's speed knob!

By S. Vasudevan,
Retired Superintendent of Customs and GST

Vasudevan

Owning a car was a distant dream till 50 years of my age. Finally, I could buy a petite beauty — a German company car Opel Corsa Sail. It was a "pre-owned" one (decent word for second hand). The running around I made to purchase this would itself make an interesting story as I was a greenhorn then. The pre-owner used all his expertise in explaining its features and convinced me to buy it. He also postured as if he was deeply pained to part with the car.

Well, like any other kid with a new toy, I developed a bond with this beauty. Once, it was a dream to buy a car but soon I used to drive this car even in my dreams. My obsession for spic and span maintenance of my new love, made her silver-coloured curvatures (I believe Chassis is a very harsh word) shine brighter.

A veteran from Indian Air Force that I am, the lessons on cleanliness has been imbibed by me. I never cared for myself even when I got sunburned in the cleaning process. I thought I had to compensate the time lost in my earlier 50 years without a car and spent more time in adoration of this new car !

This car had an exquisite spacious accommodation and upkeep of the interiors of her beauty was also given equal prominence. Dust was my chief enemy. The sight of dust would horrify me. So cleaning was meticulous. Even the remote and hard-to-access portions were carefully polished.

Well, my wife was obviously unhappy that in the course of car cleaning, my household responsibilities were weaning. Her frequency of nagging had increased. (Friends used to say their wives are also same and that sounded like music to my ears). One fine day (can I call it so?), in spite of my wife's admonitions, I ventured into cleaning my car.

Matter of just a switch

I do not dare to blame my wife for her warnings, because of which I got a little distressed. But the resultant bad mood had an evil effect as I cleaned the interiors. There was this headlight control switch that became the casualty of my distraught. Unlike the modern-day cars, which have control switch attached to steering wheel itself, in my car, it was a little remotely fixed at right-hand corner below the dashboard. Because of my unusual harsh handling that day, the switch got damaged and so was my sleep that night.

The next day I went to the company-authorised service centre. The service engineer inspected it and gave a verdict that it cannot be repaired and the entire switch control unit needs to be replaced, with an original imported one. He said that it has to be obtained from the manufacturer and may take 15 days and the estimated cost was about Rs. 7,000.

Deft hands

I got worried and decided to have a second opinion. One of my friends advised me to go to a local mechanic, Khaleel, who was an expert in his own way in repairing high-end cars. I thought of giving it a try and went to his garage which was next to a Gujari (dump yard). I was amazed to see several high-end imported cars parked there for different levels of repairs.

I was very anxious about the snag in my car, may be very minor, but was paramount for me. But after inspecting the car for only a few seconds, he showed no expressions whatsoever. He asked me to leave the car and come after an hour. His face was so serious that I did not dare to ask any more questions. The next one hour was the toughest in my life. My restless mind was preparing for the worst.

Complex problem, simple solution

I went back to the garage, posing with a fictional courage. Cool as a cucumber, Khaleel said the snag is rectified and demonstrated that it worked properly. He asked me to pay Rs. 100. I was astonished and could not believe. I peeped into the dashboard and I could see a new control knob, which looked pretty familiar as well as bizarre to me. It was totally different from the original one. I wondered how he could get such a part which was supposed to cost a bomb and was not readily available locally in such a short time and that too for a paltry hundred rupees.

When I expressed my bewilderment and disbelief (though happy within), he nonchalantly said, "Saar, it is very simple technology like a mixer in your house. I just bought a mixer speed control knob for just ten rupees and replaced the broken switch" and handed over the broken switch to me. I was astounded. I thought to myself, hell with the frightening company-authorised service centre, my job was done so effortlessly and the worry vanished.

Above all, I thought, it was a classic example of "vocal for local" and "Aatmanirbhar Bharat" much before our Prime Minister Modi promulgated the scheme nationally. Wonder how many such sophisticated spare parts Khaleel would have replaced in those imported cars lying in his garage with their bonnets open to the sky. And how many such Khaleels would be in the trade!

WORD OF THE DAY

Jurisprudence

Pronunciation: joor-us-PROO-dunss.
Meaning: The science or philosophy of law; a system or body of law; the course of court decisions as distinguished from legislation and doctrine.
Origin: "For a farewell to our jurisprudent, I wish unto him the gladsome light of jurisprudence...." With this valedictory to English jurist Sir Thomas Littleton, another jurist, Sir Edward Coke, welcomed two new words into English. In 1628, his jurisprudence meant "knowledge of or skill in law," a now archaic sense that reflects the meaning of the word's root. Jurisprudence goes back to Latin prudentia juris (literally "skill in law"), from which was derived the Late Latin formation jurisprudentia, and subsequently the English word. The noun jurisprudent means "one skilled in law"—in other words, a jurist. There's also jurisprude, a somewhat rare 20th-century back-formation created from jurisprudence with influence from prude. It means "one who makes ostentatious show of jurisprudential learning."
Example: A basic premise of American jurisprudence is that a person is presumed innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

THE ODD WORD

Jaconet

Stout cotton cloth.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Jack of all trades, master of none

Meaning: A person is suitably skilled at multiple things, but they are not an expert at any of them.
Origin: The word "jack" can refer to the common, ordinary man. So with this expression, a "jack of all trades" basically means a "man of all jobs." In other words, it's someone that is competent at several different skills. The first half of this phrase (jack of all trades) has been in use since the early 17th century. For example, it appears in a book titled Essayes and characters of a Prison and Prisoners by Geffray Minshull. This book was published in 1612 and a part from it reads: "Some broken Cittizen, who hath plaid Jack-of-all-trades." What about the last part of the phrase? When were the words "master of none" added to the tail end of it? It's hard to say for sure, but the earliest example I could find of it is from the early 19th century. For instance, it is seen in The Atlas newspaper, 1828: "You rarely meet in England a man who is Jack of all trades and master of none." Both the longer and shorter version of this expression are still in use today.
